

How does this League work?

The Markham Men's Basketball League (MMBL) is a not for profit men's basketball league. The league has been in operation for over 20 years in the Markham area.

The league prides itself on being run efficiently and has a high priority on player enjoyment and satisfaction.

There are two divisions, Open and Masters.

Each division consists of 8 teams, with a maximum of 10 players on each team.

The minimum age requirement to play in the Open Division is 21.

The minimum age requirement to play in the Masters Division is 35.

Player skills are assessed through a series of pickup games and each player in the league is given a "skill" ranking (A, B or C).

In the Open Division there is an official player draft by the 8 Open division captains.

Teams/players are chosen on an annual basis. For this reason this league does not accept "team registrations".

Each season, returning players (players that played in the previous MMBL season) are given preference to rejoin over new players during the first 2 weeks of registration only.

Starting on the first week of registration, new players can register but are placed on a waiting list. If the league is not completely full at the end of the second week of registration, new players from the waiting list will be registered.
